Chapter 1 General Provisions

Article 1 This Charter has been established pursuant to Article 36 of the University Act.

Article 2 The University shall be named "National Taiwan Normal University" (hereinafter referred to as the University). The University has three campuses: Main Campus (the Heping Campus), the Gongguan Campus and the Linkou Campus.

Article 3 The University's mission is to conduct cutting edge academic research, train excellent faculty members, create talented professionals, promote culture and history, and contribute to national development.

The University shall engage in teaching, research, and service based on the principle of academic freedom.

Article 4 The University shall regularly evaluate its teaching, research, service, counseling, administration, and student activities; regulations on the evaluation of these activities shall be separately established.

Chapter 2 Organizational Structure

Article 5 The University shall be led by a President, who shall publicly represent the University and be responsible for the management and development of academic affairs.

Candidates for the position of the President shall have more than five years of experience as a full-time professor, and more than four years of experience in the administration of educational or academic affairs. Candidates also need to fulfill the criteria set out in relevant rules and regulations, such as the Act Governing the Appointment of Educators.

Article 6 The University shall appoint two to three Executive Vice Presidents, who shall assist the President in carrying out work relevant to University affairs.

Article 7 The University shall consist of various colleges, departments, graduate institutes, and degree programs, detailed in the Table for Establishment of National Taiwan Normal University Colleges, Departments, Graduate Institutes, and Degree Programs.

The said table shall be promptly updated following additions to or mergers of said colleges, departments, graduate institutes, or degree programs approved by the Ministry of Education, and the table itself shall be submitted to the Ministry of Education for approval.

Each of the departments, graduate institutes and degree programs of the University's colleges offering closely-related courses and training, or colleges with less than forty instructors, may operate as a "Professional College" when carrying out its functions, coordinating with other parties, and allocating resources. Operational regulations for "Professional Colleges" shall be drafted separately.

Within a college, departments and institutes with closely-related course designs or personnel shall be merged under an "institutes within department" organizational structure. Departments and institutes may also be merged into this structure if required by their development needs. Regulations on mergers shall be separately established.

The University shall select one or two departments or institutes with strong professional qualities for development into models for training teachers. The implementation procedures for this process shall be separately established, and submitted to the Ministry of Education for future reference and for assistance.

Article 8 Each of the University's colleges shall appoint a Dean, who shall oversee the college. Each department shall appoint a Chair, who shall oversee the department. Each individually-established graduate institute shall appoint a Director, who shall oversee the institute. Each degree program shall appoint a Chair, who shall oversee the program. Each college shall appoint secretaries and staff as deemed necessary. Each department, graduate institute, and degree program shall appoint teaching assistants and staff when needed.

Article 9 The University shall establish the following units:

1. Office of Academic Affairs (OAA): The OAA is responsible for overall planning, registration, curricula, graduate studies, general education, and other academic affairs. This office has six divisions, which are Strategic Planning, Registrar's Office, Curriculum Office, Graduate Studies, OAA Gongguan Campus and OAA Linkou Campus. OAA also includes centers and offices for General Education, Teaching and Learning Development, and NTNU Online. OAA shall be headed by the Vice President for Academic Affairs and one to two Associate Vice Presidents for Academic Affairs. Each division shall be overseen by a Division Head, while centers or offices for General Education, Teaching and Learning Development, and NTNU Online shall each be supervised by a Director. Part-time instructors, secretaries, or staff shall be appointed as deemed necessary.

2. Office of Student Affairs (OSA): The OSA shall be responsible for student services, extracurricular activities, healthcare, mental health counseling, career counseling, tactical and first aid training, and other student-related activities. This office has four divisions, one each for Student Services, Extracurricular Activities, OSA Gongguan Campus, and OSA Linkou Campus. It also oversees the Health Center, the Student Counseling Center, the Community Counseling Center, the Career Center, the Student Adviser Office, and the Holistic Education Center. The Office shall be headed by the Vice President for Student Affairs and one to two Associate Vice Presidents for Student Affairs. Each division shall be overseen by a Division Head, while the Health Center, the Student Counseling Center, the Community Counseling Center, the Career Center, the Student Adviser Office, and the Holistic Education Center shall each be led by a Director. Medical employees, secretaries or staff shall be appointed as deemed necessary. The Student Counseling Center and the Community Counseling Center shall appoint several researchers and part-time counselors or instructors when necessary.

   The OSA may seek assistance from the Athletic Department on matters relevant to student sports activities.

3. Office of General Affairs (OGA): The OGA shall be responsible for facilities management, cashier services, maintenance and renovation, university property management, student housing management and operations, procurement, and other general affairs. It shall have a total of seven divisions, including General Services, Cashier, Maintenance and Renovation, Property Management, Procurement, OGA Gongguan Campus, and OGA Linkou Campus. It also runs the Student Housing Center. OGA shall be headed by the Vice President for General Affairs and one to two Associate Vice Presidents for General Affairs. Each division shall be overseen by a Division Head. The Student Housing Center shall be overseen by a Director. OGA shall appoint secretaries or staff when deemed necessary.

4. Office of Research and Development (ORD): The ORD shall be responsible for research and planning, research coordination, technology transfers, academic exchanges and collaborations, global academic collaborations, and other activities related to research and development. It has three divisions, Strategic Planning, Research Coordination, and Research and Industry Liaison. The Office shall be headed by the Vice President for Research and Development and one Associate Vice President for Research and Development. Each division in this office shall be overseen by a Division Head. Researchers, secretaries and staff members shall be appointed as deemed necessary.

When needed, ORD shall establish an Innovation & Incubation Center, an Advance Instrumentation Center, and a Research Ethics Office, each of which shall be overseen by a Director with staff appointed when needed. Procedures for their establishment shall be set separately.

5. School of Teacher Education: This School shall be in charge of teacher education programs, educational practicums and regional support, international teacher education, and other teacher-education related affairs. The office has three divisions, one each for Teacher Education Programs, Educational Practicum and Professional Development, and International Teacher Education. The School shall be headed by a Vice President for Teacher Education and each division shall be overseen by a Division Head. Adjunct instructors, secretaries and staff shall be appointed as deemed necessary.
6. Office of International Affairs (OIA): The OIA shall be responsible for activities such as the promotion of global student recruitment, global student affairs, and global exchanges and collaborations. It has four divisions, Global Student Recruitment, Global Student Affairs, Global Academic Collaborations, and OIA Linkou Campus. The Office shall be headed by a Vice President for International Affairs and one Associate Vice President for International Affairs. Each division shall be overseen by a Division Head. Secretaries and staff shall be appointed as deemed necessary.
7. NTNU Libraries: The NTNU Libraries shall be in charge of library and information management duties, including acquisition, recording, cataloging, circulation, collections, reference and information services, management of university archives, and publications. It has six divisions, Bibliography Management, Circulation and Collection Management, Acquisitions and Development, Digital Technologies and Information Systems, Reference and Outreach Services, and Special Collections and University Archives. It also runs the NTNU Press. The NTNU Libraries shall be headed by the University Librarian and the Associate University Librarian. Each division shall be led by a Division Head, and the NTNU Press by a Director. Secretaries and staff shall be appointed if needed.

The NTNU Libraries shall establish library branches when necessary. These branches shall be headed by a Director, and shall appoint the necessary employees.

8. Information Technology Center: This center shall be responsible for the digitization of administrative services, teaching and research support, the maintenance of the university's IT infrastructure, digital technology enhancement, research in digital technology, and relevant consulting services. This center has four divisions - NTNU Information Systems, Instructional Technology Services, Computer and Network Systems, and Advanced Technology Services. The Center shall be headed by a Director, and each division shall be managed by a Division Head. Researchers, secretaries, staff and rare technology specialists shall be appointed as deemed necessary.
9. Athletic Department: This department shall in charge of the promotion of sports and recreational activities, training of university athletes, the management of sporting facilities and equipment, and supporting sports education. It has five divisions, Sports and Recreational Activities, Athletic Training, Facilities and Equipment Management, the Athletics Department, Gongguan Campus, and the Athletics Department, Linkou Campus. The Office shall be headed by a Director, and each division led by a Division Head. Part-time instructors, coaches, and staff shall be appointed when needed.
10. Office of Administrative Affairs (OAA): The OAA shall be responsible for secretarial duties, meetings preparations, assessment controls, administrative duties, documentation management, official seals, as well as other related work per the instructions of the President. It shall establish up to three divisions, as well as the Public Affairs Center and an Institutional Research Office when deemed necessary. The OAA shall be headed by a Secretary General. Each division shall be led by a Division Head, and the Public Affairs Center and Institutional Research Office are each managed by a Director. Researchers, secretaries and staff shall be appointed when necessary.

11. Environmental and Public Safety Center: This center shall be responsible for activities related to campus environmental protection, laboratory health and safety, energy resources management, campus surveillance, security, and safety. It has three divisions, Strategic Planning, Environmental Protection, and Occupational Safety. The Center shall be headed by a Director, and each division by a Division Head. Secretaries and staff shall be appointed as deemed necessary.

When a unit grows to a certain degree and when workload increases to a certain level, as defined by criteria set by the Ministry of Education, the said unit may appoint associate supervisors.

Article 9-1 The University shall establish an Office of Human Resources, which shall consist of divisions focusing on specific areas of responsibility. The Office shall be headed by one Director, along with several executive administrators, division heads, administrators, senior staffs, staffs, administrative assistants, full-time student workers, part-time student workers, and temporary workers, and will carry out human resources work in accordance with law.

Article 9-2 The University shall establish an Office of Accounting, which shall consist of divisions focusing on specific areas of responsibility. The Office shall be headed by one Director, along with several executive administrators, division heads, administrators, senior staffs, staffs, administrative assistants, full-time student workers, part-time student workers, and temporary workers, and will be responsible for budgeting, accounting and statistics collection in accordance with law.

Article 10 The University shall establish the following centers to attain goals in education, research, service provision, and program advancement:

1. Science Education Center
2. Special Education Center
3. Research Center for Psychological and Educational Testing
4. Center for Educational Research and Innovation

10. University Health Committee

11. Special Education Committee
12. General Education Committee

The University shall establish additional committees and task forces when deemed necessary, with approval from the University Council or other relevant Committees. Regulations for each committee and task force shall be separately established.

Article 15 Regulations for the management and establishment of the units described in Articles 8, 9, 10, 11, 11-1, and 11-2 of this Charter provide for the appointment of employees to the positions of executive administrator, senior administrator, secretary, senior technical specialist, senior administrator, administrator, counselor, senior staff, technical specialist, administrative assistant, junior technical specialist, and clerk.

Article 9 of this Charter provides for medical personnel to be appointed to the positions of physician, pharmacist, professional registered nurses, dietitian, clinical psychologist, counseling psychologist, and registered nurses. When necessary, physicians from private or public medical institutions shall be appointed on a temporary basis.

Information technology specialists shall no longer be employed as rare technology specialists described in Article 9 of this Charter, as stipulated in Article 10 of the Regulations on the Appointment of and Criteria for Rare Technology Specialists by Public Higher Education Institutions. Currently employed information technology specialists shall remain employed until they choose to resign, and the promotion of these employees shall be governed by the regulations mentioned above.

The University's staffing structure shall be separately drawn, and subsequently implemented after submission to the Ministry of Education for approval. Its employee staffing structure shall be submitted to the Examination Yuan for future reference.

Chapter 3 Councils

Article 16 The University shall establish the University Council, which shall deliberate on the following issues:

1. University Development Plan and Budget.
2. The establishment, amendment and abolition of the University Charter, and major provisions.
3. The new establishment, modification, or abolition of any college, department, graduate institute, degree program, office, library, center, or school of continuing education, any organizations affiliated with the University, various committees, and task forces.

4. Academic affairs, student affairs, general affairs, research and development, teacher education, international affairs and others.
5. Faculty evaluation regulations.
6. Proposals brought up during council meetings, and issues raised by the President.
7. Resolutions on University Council-established committees and task forces.

When required by Subparagraphs 1. and 3. of the previous Paragraph, the University Council shall establish a University Affairs Institutional Research and Development Committee, responsible for handling matters as instructed by the University Council.

Article 17 The University Council shall consist of the President, Executive Vice President, faculty representatives, deans of colleges, the Vice President for Academic Affairs, the Vice President for Student Affairs, the Vice President for General Affairs, the Vice President for Research and Development, the Vice President for the School of Teacher Education, the Vice President for International Affairs, the Director of the Academy of the Preparatory Programs for Overseas Chinese Students, the president of the University-affiliated high school, the Director of the Office of Accounting, the Director of the Office of Human Resources, a researcher representative, a teaching assistant representative, four employee representatives, a custodian representative, and student representatives. The number of faculty representatives shall make up at least one-half of the University Council. In principle, professors or associate professors shall make up at least two-thirds of these faculty representatives. The number of student representatives shall make up at least one-tenth of the University Council.

The University Librarian, the Vice President for the School of Continuing Education, the Director of the Information Technology Center, the Director of the Athletic Department, the Secretary General, and the Director of the Environmental and Public Safety Center as well as second-level administrative supervisors shall attend the University Council.

Relevant personnel shall be invited to attend meetings of the University Council sessions when necessary.

Article 18 Faculty representatives to the University Council shall be chosen by elections held in each college. Elected faculty representatives shall serve one-year terms, and may be re-elected to serve consecutive terms. In principle, the number of faculty representatives for each college shall be determined by the proportion of faculty members attached to a college, and at least two-thirds of the faculty representatives from each college shall either be professors or associate professors. In cases where full-time faculty members from certain offices, academies, libraries, centers, and the School of Teacher Education were combined and viewed as belonging to a single unit for the calculation of representation, the representatives for this collective shall be determined following the regulations set forth by the respective colleges. Researcher, teaching assistant, employee and custodian representatives to the University Council shall be chosen by elections held for each of these groups. These latter representatives shall serve one-year terms, and may be re-elected to serve consecutive terms.

Regulations on the selection of the University Council representatives shall be separately established. Regulations on the selection of faculty representatives shall be established by each college. In the event that a college representative to the University Council is unable to serve on a Committee, the college they represent shall appoint another representative to take his/her place. In cases where full-time faculty members from certain offices, academies, libraries, centers, and the School of Teacher Education were combined and viewed as belonging to a single unit for the calculation of representation, the representatives for this collective shall be determined following the regulations set forth by the respective colleges.

Article 19 The University Council shall be convened and chaired by the President at least once every semester. When requested to hold an Extraordinary University Council meeting by more than half of all University Council members, the President shall convene an Extraordinary University Council meeting within 15 days. The President may convene an Extraordinary University Council meeting in response to major University-wide issues.

Article 20 The University Council shall establish the University Affairs Research and Development Committee to handle matters concerning university affairs development. The University Council shall establish a Permanent Committee, which shall take charge of handling relevant matters when the University Council is not in session.

Said committees shall consist of permanent members and elected members. Regulations for establishing said committees and their organizational regulations shall be separately established.

The University Council shall establish task forces when deemed necessary to take charge of handling matters as instructed by the University Council. Task force members shall be elected by the University Council.

Article 21 The University shall establish the Administrative Council, which shall be chaired by the President and deliberate on major university-administration matters. The Administrative Council shall consist of the President, the Executive Vice Presidents, the Vice President for Academic Affairs, the Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs, the Vice President for Student Affairs, the Associate Vice President for Student Affairs, the Vice President of General Affairs, the Associate Vice President for General Affairs, the Deans of each college, the Directors of each graduate institute, the Chair of each department, the Chair of each degree program, the Vice President for Research and Development, the Associate Vice President for Research and Development, the Vice President for the School of Teacher Education, the Vice President and Associate Vice President for International Affairs, the University Librarian, the Vice President for the School of Continuing Education, the Director of the Academy of Preparatory Programs for Overseas Chinese Students, the Director of the Information Technology Center, the Director of the Athletic Department, the Secretary General, the president of the university-affiliated high school, the Director of the Environmental and Public Safety Center, the Director of the Office of Human Resources, the Director of the Office of Accounting, the Director of the Mandarin Training Center, the Director of the Science Education Center, the Director of the Special Education Center, the Director of the Psychological and Educational Evaluation Research and Development Center, the Director of the Center for Educational Research and Innovation, the Director of the Physical Education Research and Development Center, and the Director of the Mathematics Education Center.

The Administrative Council shall establish the Academic and Administrative Directors Committee, which shall be chaired by the President. Relevant matters shall be handled by the Committee when the Administrative Council is not in session. The Academic and Administrative Directors Committee consists of the President, Executive Vice Presidents, the Deans of each college, first-level administrative executives, the President of the University-affiliated high school. Parties involved may be invited to attend the Committee if necessary.

Article 22 The University shall establish an Academic Affairs Council, which shall be chaired by the Vice President for Academic Affairs and deliberate on important academic affairs. The Academic Affairs Council shall consist of the Vice President for Academic Affairs, the Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs, the deans of each college, the chair of each department, the directors of each graduate institute, the directors of each degree program, the Vice President for Student Affairs, the Vice President for International Affairs, the Vice President for the School of Teacher Education, the Director of Preparatory Programs for Overseas Chinese Students, the Director of the Information Technology Center, the University Librarian, and student representatives.

The Academic Affairs Council shall establish Curriculum Committee. Regulations governing the establishment of said committee shall be separately established.

Article 23 The University shall establish a Student Affairs Council, which shall be chaired by the Vice President for Student Affairs and deliberate on important student affairs. The Student Affairs Council shall consist of the Vice President for Academic Affairs, the Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs, the President for Student Affairs, the Vice President for General Affairs, the chair of each department, the directors of each graduate institute, the directors of each degree program, the Director of the Academy of Preparatory Programs for Overseas Chinese Students, the Director of the Athletic Department, the Director of the Environmental and Public Safety Center, one academic adviser representative from each college, and student representatives.

The Academic Affairs Council shall establish a Reward and Disciplinary Penalty Committee and a Student Food Safety Committee. Regulations governing the establishment of said committees shall be separately established.

Article 24 The University shall establish a General Affairs Council, which shall be chaired by the Vice President for General Affairs and deliberate on important general affairs. The General Affairs Council shall consist of the Vice President for General Affairs, the Associate Vice President for General Affairs, the Vice President for Academic Affairs, the Vice President for Student Affairs, the Director of Preparatory Programs for Overseas Chinese Students, the Director of the Environmental and Public Safety Center, and student representatives. When deemed necessary, other academics and experts or relevant personnel from within or outside the University shall be invited to attend council meetings.

The General Affairs Council shall establish a Technician and Custodian Evaluation Task Force as well as a Campus Security Personnel Evaluation Task Force. Regulations governing the establishment of said task forces shall be separately established.

The English version is provided for reference only.
The Chinese version shall prevail in case of any discrepancies between the English and Chinese versions.

Article 25 The University shall establish a Research and Development Council, which shall be chaired by the Vice President for Research and Development and deliberate on important research and development matters. The Research and Development Council shall consist of the Vice President for Research and Development, the Associate Vice President for Research and Development, faculty representatives from each college and a team of external academics and experts.

Article 26 The University shall establish a Teacher Education Council, which shall be chaired by the Vice President for the School of Teacher Education, and deliberate on important matters relevant to teacher education. The Teacher Education Council shall consist of the Vice President for the School of Teacher Education, the Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs, the Dean of the College of Education, the Chair of the Department of Special Education, as well as faculty and student representatives from departments associated with teacher education.

Article 26-1 The University shall establish an International Affairs Council, which shall be chaired by the Vice President for International Affairs and deliberate on important international issues. The International Affairs Council shall consist of the Vice President for International Affairs, the Associate Vice President for International Affairs, the Vice President for Academic Affairs, the Vice President for Student Affairs, the Vice President for Research and Development, the Vice President for the School of Teacher Education, the deans of each college, two to three external academics and experts, and student representatives.

Article 27 Each college shall establish a College Affairs Council, chaired by their respective Deans. Each College Affairs Council meeting shall consist of the college Dean, chair of each department within the college, directors of each graduate institute within the college, directors of each degree program within the college, and faculty representatives from each of the college's departments, graduate institutes, and degree programs.

Faculty representatives shall be selected in accordance with regulations set by each college.

Article 28 Each department shall establish a Department Affairs Council, chaired by the department Chair. The council shall deliberate on matters relevant to the department, such as teaching, research, and development of the department. The Department Affairs Council shall consist of all faculty members, teaching assistants, and staff of the department.

Each of the University's graduate institutes shall establish an institutional council, chaired by the institute's Director. The council shall deliberate on matters relevant to the institute, such as graduate teaching, research, and institute development. The institutional council shall consist of all faculty members, teaching assistants, and staff of the institute.

Each degree program within the University shall establish a Degree Program Affairs Council, chaired by the program Director. The council shall deliberate on matters relevant to the degree program, such as the teaching and research conducted by the program and the program's development. The Degree Program Affairs Council shall consist of all faculty members, teaching assistants, and staff of the Program.

Each department, institute, and degree program council shall invite student representatives to attend when discussing matters relevant to student academics or regular student activities.

Article 29 Each library, office, academy, and center shall establish a library, program, department, or center affairs council. The School of Continuing Education and the School of Teacher Education shall also establish their own respective councils. The supervisor for each library, office, academy, and center, as well as for the School of Continuing Education and the School of Teacher Education, shall chair these council meetings, where matters relevant to each unit shall be discussed. The council meetings for each library, office, center, as well as for the School of Continuing Education and the School of Teacher Education, shall consist of all members of each unit or a team of representatives from each unit.

Each library, office, and center, as well as the School of Continuing Education and the School of Teacher Education, shall establish advisory or consultative committees comprising relevant personnel to discuss the improvement and development of each unit. Regulations for their establishment shall be separately established.

Article 30 Council regulations shall be established by each unit to govern the respective council described in this chapter. Each council shall convene at least once a semester, and other relevant persons shall be invited to attend these council meetings when necessary.

Chapter 4 Selection of the President, Executives, and their Terms of Office

Article 31 The President shall be selected by the University's President Selection Committee through an open recruitment process. After considering the opinions of all stakeholders, the committee shall select a President independently and autonomously, and request the Ministry of Education to appoint the selected candidate.

The composition of the selection committee and its members shall be as follows:

1. University representatives elected by the University Council shall comprise two-fifths of the selection committee.
2. Alumni representatives elected by the University Council and respected members of society shall make up two-fifths of the selection committee.
3. The remaining members of the committee shall be representatives from the Ministry of Education.

For each type of representatives described in Point 2 above, each gender shall make up at least one-third of all representatives of a single type. Alternate committee members shall also be designated. The University representatives described in Point 1 shall include faculty representatives, who shall make up at least two-thirds of all University representatives in the committee.

Specific regulations for the selection of President Selection Committee members, and for establishing the said committee, shall be separately established.

The President shall serve a four-year term of office, and may be re-appointed once at the end of the first term. In principle, the President's term of office shall begin on either the first of August or February. The Ministry of Education shall evaluate the President's performance ten months before the end of their first term of office. Representatives from the University Council shall conduct an anonymous vote of confidence after considering the President's performance, plans, and vision, as well as consulting the Ministry of Education's evaluation report. With a quorum of more than two-thirds of all representatives of the University Council participating in the vote and the vote in favor of the President wins by a simple majority, the University Council shall submit a request to the Ministry of Education to re-appoint the President for a second term.

If, due to a major dereliction of duty by the President, more than one-quarter of the University Council representatives make a motion to dismiss the President and more than two-thirds of all representatives of the University Council are in favor of the said motion, the University Council shall submit a request to the Ministry of Education for the President's dismissal.

The University Council Standing Committee shall be responsible for all matters relevant to the re-appointment and dismissal of the President.

The English version is provided for reference only.
The Chinese version shall prevail in case of any discrepancies between the English and Chinese versions.

Ten months before the end of the President's term (and after the President has decided not to serve for a second-term or after it has been confirmed that the President will not be re-appointed), or within two months of the position being rendered vacant for any reason whatsoever, the President Selection Committee shall be established to commence the selection process.

If the post of President is rendered vacant for any reason whatsoever, the Executive Vice President, the Vice Presidents for Student Affairs and for Academic Affairs, shall, in that order of succession, take over the President's duties and serve until the next President's appointment.

Article 32 The President shall appoint a full-time professor to serve as the Executive Vice President; the appointee shall hold both the executive vice presidency and the professorship concurrently.

In principle, the term of office of the Executive Vice President shall be co-terminus with the term of office of the President.

Article 33 The President shall appoint the Vice President for Academic Affairs, Vice President for Student Affairs, Vice President for General Affairs, Vice President for Research and Development, Vice President for the School of Teacher Education, Vice President for International Affairs, and the supervisors for its libraries, offices, academy, centers, as well as for the School of Continuing Education, the School of Teacher Education, and any other affiliated organizations.

Article 34 Deans of each University college shall be selected by a selection committee. At least one-fourth of the committee members shall be representatives from outside the college.

Each college shall set regulations on the selection of the Dean. The said regulations shall clearly specify how the Dean selection committee is to be constituted, how the selection is made, and the procedures for re-appointing and dismissing a Dean. After being approved by the College Affairs Council, the said regulations shall be submitted to the President for review and filed prior to implementation.

The Dean selection committee of each college shall recruit candidates for the position of Dean openly and select one candidate for the position. The selected candidate shall be appointed by the President. In the event that the selected Dean is not a full-time professor of this University, the college shall increase its number of faculty members in accordance with each department's (institute, or degree program) procedures for appointing new faculty members.

The first Dean of a newly-established college shall be recruited and appointed by the President.

The renewal of a Dean's term of office, or their dismissal in the event of a major incident, shall be decided through a vote by the college's eligible faculty members and college Committee representatives, or by following the college's regulations and procedures for selecting a Dean. The results shall be submitted to the President, who shall re-appoint or dismiss the Dean.

If a college comprises more than six departments, graduate institutes, or degree programs, an Associate Dean shall be appointed. The Dean shall nominate a professor of the college to this position, and the nominated candidate shall be appointed by the President. In the event that an Associate Dean is dismissed due to a major incident, the Dean shall submit a signed request to the President for any such dismissal.

For colleges with an appointed Associate Dean, the said Associate Dean shall assume the duties of the Dean if the Dean is removed from his/her post, until such time that a new Dean is selected and appointed. For colleges without an appointed Associate Dean, the President shall convene a college Committee to initiate the selection process and shall appoint an interim Dean.

Article 35 Each of the University's department chairs, graduate institute directors, and degree program directors shall be democratically elected by their department, graduate institute, or degree program. Candidates for these positions shall be faculty members holding the rank of associate professor or above, and the elected candidates shall be appointed by the President. However, art departments, institutes, or degree programs may have technical specialists holding a rank equivalent to a professor appointed to these positions.

Each department (institute, or degree program) shall set regulations for the selection of the Chair or Director. The said regulations shall clearly specify how the Chair or Director is to be selected, re-appointed, or dismissed. After the said regulations have been approved by the department, institute, or degree program council, they shall be submitted to the President for review and filed prior to implementation.

The first Chair or Director of a newly-established department, graduate institute, or degree program shall be recruited and appointed by the President.

The re-appointment of a department Chair, graduate institute Director, or degree program Director, or their dismissal in the event of a major incident, shall be decided through voting by the department, graduate institute, or degree program's qualified faculty members and Council representatives, in accordance with the department, graduate institute, or degree program's regulations and procedures for selecting a Chair or Director. The results shall be submitted to the President, who shall re-appoint or dismiss the Chair or Director.

In the event that the Chair or Director of a department, graduate institute, or degree program is dismissed from his/her post due to a major incident, the Dean shall convene a department, institute, or degree program council meeting to begin the selection process and shall appoint an Interim Chair or Director.

Colleges operating as a professional college, as well as their departments, graduate institutes, or degree programs, shall separately establish regulations for the selection, re-appointment and dismissal of a Dean, Chair, or Director. The said regulations shall be submitted to the President to be promulgated and implemented after approval by the University Council.

Article 36 Academic executives of the University shall hold the following qualifications:

1. College deans and associate deans shall hold the rank of professor.
2. Department Chairs, graduate institute Directors, and degree program Directors shall hold the rank of associate professor or above. However, art departments, graduate institutes, or degree programs can have technical specialists holding a rank equivalent to a professor to serve as a Chair or Director.

Administrative executives of the University shall hold the following qualifications:

1. The Vice President for Academic Affairs, the Vice President for Student Affairs, the Vice President for Research and Development, as well as the Vice President for the School of Teacher Education and the Vice President for International Affairs shall hold the rank of professor.
2. The Vice President for General Affairs, the Director of the Information Technology Center, the Vice President for the School of Continuing Education, the Director of the Academy of Preparatory Programs for Overseas Chinese Students, the Director of the Athletic Department, the Director of the Environmental and Public Safety

Center, as well as the executive directors of the University centers mentioned in Article 10 of this Charter, shall be appointed by the President and shall be teachers or researchers holding the rank of associate professor or above. The positions of Vice President for General Affairs and the Secretary General may be held by current administrative staff members.

The University Librarian shall be appointed by the President, and shall be a teacher or researcher holding the rank of associate professor or above, or an administrative staff member, and shall possess the necessary expertise required by the position.

3. The directors of the Office of Human Resources and Office of Accounting shall be appointed in accordance with relevant laws and regulations.
4. The Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs, Associate Vice President for Student Affairs, Associate Vice President for Research and Development, and Associate Vice President for International Affairs shall be appointed by the President and be a faculty member or researcher holding the rank of professor.

   The Associate Vice President for General Affairs and Associate University Librarian shall be appointed by the President, and be a faculty member or researcher holding the rank of associate professor or above.

   The Associate Director of the Academy of Programs for Overseas Chinese Students shall be appointed by the President, and be a faculty member or researcher holding the rank of assistant professor or above.
5. Division heads of second-level divisions, excluding the Office of Human Resources and the Office of Accounting, shall be appointed by the President, and shall be faculty members or researchers (including faculty members employed using the University Endowment Fund) holding the rank of lecturer or above, or an administrative staff member.

   Directors of second-level University units shall be appointed by the President, and shall be faculty members or researchers (including faculty members employed using the University Endowment Fund) holding the rank of lecturer or above. Directors of NTNU Library branches shall be administrative staff members.

Article 37 The terms of the University's academic executives are as below:

1. College deans shall serve three-year terms, and may be re-appointed once in keeping with the Dean selection regulations set by each college. The term of office of the Associate Dean shall be coterminous with that of the Deans'.

2. Other academic executives shall serve two to three-year terms, and may be re-selected to serve consecutive terms but shall not serve for more than six consecutive years.

The terms of the University's administrative executives are as follows:

1. Faculty members or researchers serving as first-level administrative executives shall serve the same terms of office as the incumbent President, except in cases where they are dismissed by the President or if they resign from the position. Faculty members or researchers serving as vice executives or second-level administrative executives shall serve the same term of office as first-level administrative executives, except for those dismissed by the President or those who resign from the position.
2. Faculty members or researchers serving as academic executives at any level shall be appointed each year to serve one-year terms by the President. This same process shall apply for re-appointments.

Chapter 5 Faculty Rank and Appointment

Article 38 University faculty are classified into four ranks: professor, associate professor, assistant professor, and lecturer. In principle, lecturers shall only teach undergraduate courses.

To attract outstanding talent and improve teaching and research standards, the University shall establish chair professorships, which are to be awarded to professors with outstanding achievements in teaching or research. Regulations for establishing these professorships shall be separately established.

The University may recruit or jointly appoint faculty members to foster academic exchanges and improve the University's teaching and research standards; regulations on faculty recruitment shall be separately established.

Each department, graduate institute, and degree program of the University shall appoint teaching assistants to assist in teaching and research activities.

The University shall employ technical specialists for teaching positions when deemed necessary. Regulations on the employment of the said specialists shall be separately established.

Article 39 The University shall employ part-time faculty based on teaching or research needs. In principle, the number of part-time faculty shall not exceed one-third of the number of full-time faculty.

Article 40 The recruitment of the University's faculty members, teaching assistants, and researchers shall be fair and transparency. Recruitment advertisements shall be posted through public media or in academic publications, and the recruitment process shall be in accordance with regulations.

Article 41 Reasons for the appointment, employment duration, promotion, service extension, suspension, termination, non-renewal of employment, and dismissal of University faculty and the handling of violations of faculty obligations as prescribed in Articles 32 and 34 of the Teachers' Act shall be evaluated and approved by the different levels of the Faculty Evaluation Committee.

The University's Faculty Evaluation Committee has three levels: university, college, and department (institute, or degree program) levels. Regulations on the setting up and operation of these committees shall be separately established, and such regulations shall be approved by the University Council prior to implementation. The departments (institutes, or degree programs) of a professional college shall not establish Faculty Evaluation Committees. The responsibilities of a faculty evaluation committee for these departments (institutes, or degree programs), as prescribed in Paragraph 1 of the current Article, shall instead be taken up by the college's faculty evaluation committee.

Each of the University's offices, academy, libraries and centers shall establish their respective evaluation committees similar to how a department (institutes, or degree programs) establishes a department level faculty evaluation committee. Such committees shall conduct initial evaluations of all cases arising from these units. The aforementioned units shall follow similar regulations as colleges and jointly establish a college-level Faculty Evaluation Committees, which shall conduct the secondary evaluations of their cases. Final evaluations shall be carried out by the University Faculty Evaluation Committee.

Article 42 University faculty members shall be employed through a tenure system, with three different types of tenures: initial, renewable, and long-term. Faculty members on initial tenure are employed for a one-year duration, while faculty on a renewable tenure are first employed for one year, after which their employment may be renewed for two years at a time. Rules and criteria for long-term tenures shall be set in line with relevant laws and regulations.

The University shall regularly carry out faculty evaluations to improve the quality of its teaching, research, counseling, and service. Regulations on faculty evaluations shall be separately established.

Article 43 Professors who reach the age of 65 may have their term of service extended by a recommendation from their department, institute, or degree program, in accordance with regulations. This term may be extended until the professor reaches 70 years of age. Relevant regulations on such extensions shall be separately established.

Article 44 The University shall employ researchers to conduct research and research-related work. Researchers shall be classified into four grades: research fellow, associate research fellow, assistant research fellows, and research assistants. The employment, promotion, and evaluation of the said researchers shall be conducted in accordance with relevant laws and regulations.

Article 45 University staff members, unless governed by other regulations, shall be appointed by the President when deemed necessary and requested by an executive of an office, college, department, institute, degree program, library, office, academy, center, the School of Continuing Education, or the School of Teacher Education. All matters involving ranks, appointment and dismissal, salaries, examination and evaluation, and promotion shall be conducted pursuant to national laws and regulations and the University's regulations.

Article 46 The University shall establish a Faculty Appeals and Arbitration Committee, whose task is to evaluate appeals concerning the dismissal and suspension of faculty and researchers, or any other appeals against potential infringement of faculty or researcher rights.

The Faculty Appeals and Arbitration Committee shall consist of thirteen to fifteen members, made up of the University's full-time faculty members, respected members of society, academics and experts, representatives from local teaching associations, and representatives from the University. At least half of the committee's members have to be faculty members who do not concurrently hold an administrative position. No gender shall make up less than one-third of the committee. Depending on the appeal being evaluated, relevant experts shall be invited to attend the committee meeting when deemed necessary.

Representation from a local teachers' association shall be recommended by the University's faculty association. In the event that a faculty association has not been established, representation shall be recommended by the faculty association of another university, or by the Taipei Teachers'

Association. The University representative shall be selected by the President, and shall be a faculty member who concurrently holds an administrative position.

The Faculty Appeals and Arbitration Committee's organizational and evaluation guidelines shall be separately established.

Article 47 The appointment of lecturers, technical specialists, teaching assistants, and part-time faculty shall be governed by the regulations of this Charter, unless otherwise regulated.

Chapter 6 Student Enrollment and Self-government

Article 48 University students include undergraduate students, master's students, and doctoral students. Master's and doctoral students are collectively referred to as graduate students. Students shall be admitted only through selection by a public admissions process.

The admissions process described in the preceding Paragraph shall be governed by regulations set by the University, and implemented with prior approval from the Ministry of Education. The University shall admit a certain number of special status and international students, in line with the relevant regulations of the Ministry of Education.

Article 49 Undergraduate students shall be enrolled, in principle, for a period of four years; master's program students shall be enrolled for one to four years, and doctoral students for two to seven years. Undergraduates who fail to obtain the required credits within the period of study shall be eligible to apply for an extension of their enrollment duration.

Undergraduates with outstanding academic performance who have obtained the required credits for graduation one semester or one academic year ahead of the end of the enrollment duration shall be allowed to graduate early. Master's students with outstanding academic performance during the enrollment duration may apply to directly advance to a doctoral program after completing the first year of their master's study.

Regulations governing the cases described in the preceding two Paragraphs shall be established by the University, and submitted to the Ministry of Education for review prior to implementation.

Article 50 Undergraduates of the University include state-financed students and self-funded students. Their rights and obligations shall be governed by national laws and regulations and the University's regulations.

Article 51 Students of the University shall be permitted to take courses in other universities. Undergraduates shall be permitted to take minors or double majors outside their home departments. Relevant regulations shall be established by the University, and submitted to the Ministry of Education for future reference.

Article 52 Doctorate and master's students shall obtain at least 18 and 24 credits respectively as a requirement for graduation. Undergraduates shall complete at least 128 credits.

Upon completing their enrollment duration and passing the required examinations, bachelor's, master's and doctoral students shall be granted bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees respectively by the University.

Regulations on the required number of credits, and the degree to be awarded, shall be established by each department or graduate institute, after which they shall be deliberated on by the Curriculum Committee prior to submission to the Academic Affairs Committee for final approval and implementation.

Article 53 In principle, matters concerning the criteria for deferred enrollment, transfers to other institutions, transfers to another department (track), leave of absence, cessation of studies, and performance assessment shall be governed in accordance with relevant laws and regulations and the provisions of the School Regulations.

The School Regulations shall be approved by the Academic Affairs Council, and submitted to the University Council for review prior to implementation.

Article 54 To cultivate self-governing ability and knowledge of the rule of law in students, as well as to encourage students' involvement in campus issues relevant to their education, student life and rights, the University shall guide students in establishing a University Student Self-Governing Union (hereinafter referred to as the Student Union) through democratic procedures. All University students shall be members of this union, and it shall be the highest-level student self-governing organization of the University.

The Students' Union Articles of Association shall be established by the Students' Union Organization Regulations Congress. The said Articles of Association shall be submitted to the Ministry of Education for approval prior to implementation, after passage at the Student Affairs Council and the University Council meetings.

The Students' Union Articles of Association shall establish how representatives are to be elected, and stipulate preparatory matters for the establishment of said Students' Union. The said regulations shall be prepared by the Office of Student Affairs and the Student Association Preparations Task Force, and submitted to the President for approval prior to implementation.

University Students' Union members shall perform their obligations and shall be entitled to enjoy their rights under the Union's Articles of Association.

Funding for holding activities allocated to the University's Students' Union, departmental students' associations, and students' organizations shall be determined in a funding allocation meeting convened by the Division of Extracurricular Activities. Representatives from the Students' Union, departmental students' associations, and student organizations shall attend this meeting to determine funding allocation. The Office of Student Affairs shall examine fund allocation and spending, and shall release audit reports periodically.

Article 55 The University's Student Appeals and Arbitration Committee shall handle all appeals concerning student rewards and disciplinary actions, and those related to potential violation of student rights.

The said Student Appeals and Arbitration Committee shall consist of nineteen to twenty-five members, appointed by the President. Based on the requirements of each appeal case, experts in relevant fields may be invited to participate as consultative committee members. The organizational regulations shall be established by the Student Affairs Council. The said regulations shall then be approved by the University Council and submitted to the Ministry of Education for approval prior to implementation.

Article 56 University students shall elect representatives to attend the University Council, as well as attend any other Committees which establish regulations on matters relevant to student academics, campus life, or rewards and disciplinary actions.

Student representatives attending the University Council shall make up at least one-tenth of all members of the council, and seven to thirteen student representatives shall attend the Student Affairs Council. Regulations on the election of these representatives shall be jointly established by the Office of Student Affairs and Students' Union, to be later implemented after being submitted to the President for approval.

Regulations on the participation of student representatives in other Committees shall be separately established in the organizational regulations of the respective councils.

Chapter 7 Supplementary Provisions

Article 57 The University shall establish new branch campuses based on the needs of instruction, research, and services provision. Relevant regulations shall be established by the Research and Development Committee, approved by the University Council, and submitted to the Ministry of Education for approval prior to implementation.

Article 58 The Charter and any amendment thereto shall be approved by the University Council and implemented after they are submitted to and ratified by the Ministry of Education.
